

Written Exercise – Chapter 2

Top – level Domain have been used for many years since the internet started. There are generic domain names that has been used for commercial, government, education and organization to name a few. In order for the person or business to make sure their domain name is available, they have to register on ICANN (Internet Corporation for Assigned Names and Numbers) through a registrar like domain.com. There are requirements that you need to register your domain name. You have to provide your domain name, TLD name extension, your contact information and your home address and your billing address. Domain.com send your information to ICANN and DNS. Once they confirmed it you can start building your website.

Crabb, Kristen. “What Is a Top-Level Domain?” What Is Top Level Domain, 18 Dec. 2018, www.domain.com/blog/2018/12/18/what-is-a-top-level-domain/.